STRONG CLOSING BULL SENTIMENT

In the Stock Market Due to Inclination to Buy Instead of Sell—Hill Stocks Weak.

New York, Jan. 9.—Pressure to sell stock which appeared urgent yesterday, was decidedly moderate today and after a short time gave place to some inclination to buy. The demand seemed to come largely from uncovered shorts who had followed the rapid decline yesterday. There was some appearance of supporting orders also. There was a large shrinkage in the days' total sales in evidence of the narrow proportions on the market. Trading sank into stagnation at times. The most conspicuous continuance of liquidating tendency was in Southern Railway and Hill railroad stock. It was assumed yesterday that the sales of Southern Railway were due to the progress of settlement of the estate of the late president of the company, but today there were rumors that the maintenance of dividend of preferred stock was in doubt. The market, however, met with disclaimers. The supposition that the inquiry into the Great Northern and Northern Pacific group, similar to that now making into the Harriman group was given some responsibility for the weakness, but the selling of Northern Pacific was like that which followed appearance of subscription rights to the new St. Paul stock. Effective support of Union Pacific, Reading and Amalgamated Copper had a material effect on the speculative sentiment today.

The ruling rate for call loans was higher than yesterday but the rate eased after the opening. The rates for time money was rather easier, although not notably changed. The inclination of lenders to take funds out of call and place them on time continues. The market closed strong after considerable reaction in sympathy with acute weakness in Hill stock.

Prevailed in the Wheat Market the Greater Part of the Day—Corn and Oats Higher.

Chicago, Jan. 9.—WHEAT.—The market opened easy in sympathy with a moderate decline at Liverpool but the sentiment changed to bullishness because of the continued small movement in the northwest. The market was also affected by lower temperatures in the winter wheat belt fears being expressed for the safety of the fall sown crop. As the season advanced, however, reports from the southwest indicated little damage done by the cold wave and these advices brought out some selling by pit traders. Throughout the day the principal demand came from the short. Trading was quiet in the last hour and prices showed a tendency to weaken. The close was steady, with May a shade higher.

CORN.—The market was firm all day because of the demand by commission houses and cash interests. The offerings were light and came largely from pit traders. The weather conditions were more favorable for the movement of the crop and the local receipts were somewhat in excess of the estimated amount. May closed up 1/4c.

OATS.—The trading was quiet and the market was firm. The strength in wheat and corn was the chief bullish factor. A leading commission house took most of the offerings which came from scattered sources. May closed 1/4c higher.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK.

Chicago, Jan. 9.—CATTLE.—With about 22,000 on the market yesterday prices looked nearly steady. There was an early inquiry from regulars which gave promise of taking care of the run without the sellers being forced to accept any reduction in the prices. The best trading was in heavy well finished steers, lower grades being rather neglected on the early market. The quality was good as compared with the finish stuff that was on the market in the previous session. Prices held well to the finish.

HOGS.

The market was lower at the opening, prices being off 5 cents. While the run was not excessively heavy, it was larger than the corresponding day last week and there was about 5,000 head left over from yesterday. Buyers felt inclined to hear the market on this supply.

SHEEP.—PRICES were steady.

The demand was not very active on early market.

SEARCHING FOR IT.

Some Cairo Citizens Can Tell You Where Its Found.

If you have any itchiness of the skin. Irritating Eczema Itching Piles: You're looking for relief. Searching for a cure. Cairo People have found a cure for itching skin diseases.

They tell about it. Read what this citizen says: Joseph Vollmer, of 215 Ninth street, tailor, says: "I had attacks of itching piles for nearly 20 years, no doubt aggravated by the constant sitting at my business. For a year they were worse than a plague, despite every effort on my part to check the trouble. A neighbor of mine told me about Doan's Ointment curing him and it struck me that if it was effective in his case, it might be in mine, so I got a box at Paul G. Schuh's drug store. An application proved that it was better than anything I had ever used. It cooled the itching so that I could sleep at night and though I cannot say whether I am permanently cured or not, the amount of ease and comfort I received from the use of Doan's Ointment stamps that remedy as one fully up to the representations made for it."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

GOSSIP OF SPORTDOM

Dr. C. P. Hutchins, the new physical director of the Wisconsin university and coach of the football team, is a veritable bundle of energy.

Small of stature, alert in manner, and keen of eye, he apparently makes a good coach and trainer of athletes. Football is Dr. Hutchins' favorite game. Dr. Hutchins has been engaged in physical culture work and the practice of medicine for ten years. His father is a leading physician of Brooklyn, N. Y., where the Badger athletic director was born. He first went to Williams college, but before graduating decided to transfer to Columbus university, from which institution he graduated in 1894.

A matter of interest always in reference to college athletics is the pay of the coaches and trainers. It is doubtful whether any western college pays as princely a sum as does Harvard or Yale. It has been stated that Mike Murphy, the former athletic trainer at Yale, was receiving a higher salary than President Hadley, of the New Haven Institution, when he left Yale for Pennsylvania to receive a still higher salary. But, speaking of salaries at Harvard, you are on doubtful ground, for none who know will state what the compensation of the athletic trainer is there.

It is said that Bill Reid received a salary of $7,000 for coaching the varsity football team at Harvard for a year. Reid actually coaches the team for three months, but for seven of the remaining nine months he is in Cambridge each day, planning out the details of the three months' work. Reid is the highest paid athletic instructor at Harvard. President Eliot is the highest paid member of the faculty in the Cambridge institution of learning, and it is commonly reported that he receives a compensation of $10,000 a year, with the use of the president's house on Quincy street thrown in. Brawn does not exceed brain here, though it is hardly fair to compare Reid to Mike Murphy, for the Harvard coach gets his $7,000 because that is what he loses from staying away from his school in California, and, moreover, Reid is valuable because of his brains and energy as a director, and not as a man to coach in the details of an athletic game. He has others to do this for him.

The salary for a plain professor at Harvard is $5,000. Here the teaching of the game of brawn—football—does receive a higher compensation than the teaching of pursuits of the brain—Latin, Hebrew, philosophy, etc.

But Reid is the only man who receives as much or more than a professor or an assistant professor. Just what the real athletic trainers at Harvard—not the graduate coaches such as Reid—are paid is an unknown sum. James Wray, who coaches the varsity boat crews, probably is the highest-salaried man in this group, and he does not get more than $3,000, with Jack McMaster and John Lathrop, of the track team, very close to him.

A meeting to form a roller polo organization was held in Boston recently. There were present George Cunningham, representing Providence; Charles Fitzgerald of Brockton; Fred Joan and Frank Mullen of Taunton; Worcester; Malachi Kitt; Nick McGilvray, reeve, Pawtucket; by "Dickey" Pierce and Boston by Nick McGilvray. Mr. Fitzgerald presided and Mr. Cunningham was chosen secretary. After hearing favorable reports from every place interested, including Boston, it was voted to form a permanent organization, to be known as the American Roller Polo league, with Boston, Providence, Pawtucket, Brockton, Taunton and Worcester as members. The following officers were chosen: President, Murnane; secretary, J. C. Morse. A schedule committee, consisting of Messrs. Kittredge, of Worcester; Fitzgerald, of Brockton, and Cunningham, of Providence, was appointed. The sense of the meeting was that the season should open on Monday, November 5. There are many candidates for the position of referee. An effort will be made to induce the well known American league baseball umpire, "Tom" Connolly, to accept a position on the staff, and other prominent candidates are John O'Connell, one of the crack players of the "Cosey" Dolan, the well known right fielder of the Boston National league ball club, and "Big" Kavanagh, of the tuck, a veteran of the game.

The Aleutian Islands.

Until the time of Peter the Great the Aleutian Islands were unknown. The famous Russian monarch, fascinated with curiosity as to the distance between Asia and America, started, in 1725, the first of the expeditions that at last revealed those islands of the bear, the heave, the whale and the seal. But Captain Cook told more about the islands than had all the Russian explorers before him.
